Col. Gibson Writes.

Ellerbe Springs Hotel,
July 10th, 1922.

The Post-Dispatch:

I promised you on the 4th of July that I would write you a letter for your splendid paper. You told me to write on any subject I pleased, so I will give you paragraphs about different things—a kind of medley or salmagundi.

I have been here at the hotel for one week and I feel fifty per cent better than when I came. I had been unwell for two or three months, and I always come to Ellerbe Springs; whether sick or well, it is decidedly the best and cleanest place in the state. The hotel has thirty rooms, good beds and furniture, and Mrs. Capel and her two elegant young daughters can't be excelled in America for industry and a desire and effort to please. The dining room is kept in a most sanitary condition, clean white table linen, and bright silverware. Everybody is complimenting the hotel management for the well-cooked variety of good things to eat. Mr. C. C. Capel can't be excelled for kindness and his propensity for providing provisions for the hotel. Hundreds of frying size chickens and old country raised hams, and this splendid mineral water certainly creates a desire and appetite for something to eat.

I have been coming to Ellerbe Springs occasionally for fifty years, but for the past several years I have spent my vacations here.

Ellerbe Springs was first discovered by the Indians; they had their wigwags on the hills, in the forest surrounding the spring. The entire country was an unbroken forest, not a house anywhere. Deer, turkeys, bears, foxes, wolves, and other wild animals were numerous and roamed over the forest. Wild deer, in droves, drank water at the mineral Spring. Long before the Civil war, a very wealthy gentleman, owner of several hundred slaves, Col. Wm. T. Ellerbe, came in possession of the spring, and much land in connection therewith. The spring derived its name from Col. Ellerbe. He never married, and for a long period represented Marlboro county, S. C., in the State Senate. During the summer months he would come here with many invited guests from both South and North Carolina. He had his colored cooks and butlers, kept fine horses and carriages, and enjoyed themselves. They also hunted and killed turkeys and deer—really they did not require much hunting, they were so numerous.

Mr. T. C. Leak, now deceased, became in possession of this property. He purchased all of it, and proceeded to build up and improve it. A splendid hotel was erected, dance pavillion built, rock and brick dam erected to protect the spring.

Since Mr. Leak's death, his son, Col. Tom C. Leak has purchased the entire property from the other heirs, and is year by year making improvements. The hotel has been refurbished, several roads graded, beautiful lake and swimming pool made below the spring, rock and cement dam, bath-houses, and power plant all located at the lake. On July 4th between three and five hundred went in bathing. Col. Tom Leak is a public benefactor—a humanitarian in the true sense of the word. Did you know that perhaps Col. Tom Leak is the largest farmer in the two Carolinas? He owns and operates 195 plows or farms. He is one of the best men I ever knew. You know that newspaper men can find out things other people could never discover. I have for many years been in the newspaper business, besides for ten or twelve years, I have been in the "detective" business, endeavoring to run down and catch violators of the prohibition law. I have found out much about Col. Leak, good deeds performed by him and his good wife that the outside world knows nothing of. Ellerbe Springs is the best place in the world for me to spend a few weeks during the summer.

Many people were here yesterday from Bennettsville and Marlboro county. We have several at the hotel. Come up.

I have attended several fourth of July celebrations, but, last Tuesday, the 4th, I witnessed the largest crowd I ever saw on the grounds. Gov. Cam Morrison made a good, sensible and practical speech. If the farmer will only accept it and appropriate his good advice in their farming operations. I have known Cam Morrison since he was ten years of age.

I went down to hear "Cyclone Mack" last Friday night—my! my! such a crowd, and I learn that yesterday the attendance was ten thousand. How can he stand and endure such mental and physical strain? "Mack" is a wonder—there is something extraordinary about him. He is doing a great work and will accomplish much good in Rockingham if the ministers and people will only cooperate with him. Baxter McLendon is one of the greatest preachers and one of the most successful evangelists in America. Such an opportunity will come to Rockingham once in a life time.

Profanity in Cafe.

William Gaither was fined $10 and costs by the Mayor Wednesday morning for using unbecoming language in the presence of ladies. The evidence was that the young man, who is 17 and drives a jitney here, used some improper language in the Bcay Bee cafe Wednesday morning in the presence of a lady and her children. A stranger in town heard the language and went and informed Chief Covington. The arrest followed. Young Gaither denied using the language.
